U.S. SINCERE—KATO

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Cheyenne, Oct. 23.—Admiral Kato, en route for Washington, today said that since arriving in San Francisco, the Japanese Delegation to the Washington Conference had received an eminently sincere reception both from the people and the Government which fact told them that the nation was sincere. He declared that the Conference would be a success if the other nations were as sincere as the United States. The Japanese party are traveling by special train.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 22.—The vernacular papers report that the Cabinet is issuing instructions to the delegates to the Conference with regard to electric communications on the Pacific, which was suggested by America as an additional item on the agenda.

The papers state that Japan will not oppose the principle of no recognition of special privileges and rights in China but will insist on respect for existing undertakings.

It is believed that she will not oppose the principle of no monopoly of communications at Yap if the principle is applied generally to mandates. She will favor the establishment of a joint cable by Japanese and American capitalists, which project, it is believed, is included in the program of the business delegations.

OPTIMISM RESTORED

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 22.—The New York correspondent of the Times states that the Administration is anticipating the coming Conference in a spirit of optimism which was lacking some weeks ago.

The organs of the Administration are now sounding public opinion with respect to the concessions, which may legitimately be made to Japan's special interests in China.

Large numbers of articles, printed recently, emphasis the peculiar difficulties of Japan's confined population, suggesting that she should be allowed to expand on the mainland of Asia to the north of China, while insisting

FUTILE EFFORTS OF BOARD END, STRIKE IS NEAR

(Special To The China Press)

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The efforts of the United States Railway Labor Board to avert a strike on railroads throughout America came to an end tonight when the conference of board officials with the labor leaders broke up in an argument before any definite results had been achieved.

The union men started for home, and Chairman Barton of the board declared that the adjournment was final and that no further conference with the unions was contemplated. Union leaders declared that the board had presented no feasible plan for settling the matter and that the plans for the nation-wide strike would continue pending the outcome of the conference.

Secretary Hoover announced that the Department of Commerce has completed plans for the transportation of essentials by truck. Chairman McCord of the Interstate Commerce Commission conferred with President Harding. The commission announced that decisions on the applications for reduction of rates on grain and coal were imminent. The railroads have appealed for help.

Mr. Daugherty, the Attorney-General, arrived here today on his way to Washington. He predicted that there would be no general railway strike.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—The packers are storing meats for emergency use in the event the railroad strike goes into effect. They are planning a general distribution of their supplies to all branch plants throughout the country.

STRIKE ON IN TEXAS

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The trainmen of the Great Northern Railroad in Texas have struck. This strike is numerically insignificant but it indicates a total disregard of the Labor Board's plan for a settlement.

While the railway telegraphists have voted in favor of a strike on October 30, the shop crafts unions, which have a membership of 600,000, have refused to strike in sympathy with the railroad men, declaring that they will await the decision of the Labor Board.

DENY THREAT OF WAR

Washington, Oct. 23.—Administration circles have denied that the Government would exercise its war powers to avert a strike.

Welcome To Be Extended When Vessel Docks By Officials And Representatives Of American And Chinese Commercial Bodies

American officials, representatives of the American Chamber of Commerce, the American Association and of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and other Chinese commercial bodies will give welcome to China to the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce Commercial delegation arriving on the Pacific Mail Liner Empire State which is expected to dock late today.

The party of California trade delegates, on a mission through the Far East that is to continue, until nearly Christmas, numbers 135 persons and reports from Japan tell that a most enthusiastic greeting was given to them when the Empire State arrived at Yokohama. As a number of the members of the party purposed making a visit of several days in Tokio and others went on by train from Yokohama to Kobe it is understood that the full delegation will not arrive on the Empire State. Those that remained in Japan, however, are to follow on to Shanghai in a few days.

AFFAIRS ARE PLANNED

It was not possible yesterday to make any definite arrangements to give greeting to the visitors, as it was not known exactly at what hour their ship would reach port. A committee of officials and representatives of American and Chinese commercial organisations will meet the vessel when it docks and it is understood that one or more informal receptions will be held. In the course of the stay of the Mission in Shanghai numerous affairs are to be arranged to give the Californians every opportunity to see the workings of commercial life in China at short range and among other things a dinner is to be given on a date yet to be announced.

MEMBERS OF PARTY

How long the Mission will remain in China is not yet known, but a visit of several days will be made in Shanghai after which some portion of the party will proceed to Peking and northern centers before going on to Manila and Hongkong.

In connection with the arrival of the Mission it will be of interest to many to learn that Mr. Dwight K. Grady, a former Shanghai resident, is Secretary of the party. Mr. Grady was formerly a member of the advertising staff of THE CHINA PRESS and for some time has held the post of Secretary of the Foreign Trade Section of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. A. I. Esberg, is Chairman of the visiting delegation and honorary Vice-President and Foreign Trade Ambassador of San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

TROOPS DISARM BANDIT; CAREER IS SOON ENDED

(China Press Correspondence)

Siangtan, Oct. 19.—About ten thousand of the Hunanese troops have been gathered together and disarmed in Siangtan, Changsha, and surrounding cities during the last two or three days. This is one of the most encouraging things that has happened in a military way, relative to the local situation.

These troops were defeated in Hupeh by Wu Pei-fu some weeks ago. Since that time however they have been looting and foraging among the country people of their own going about in small bands and proving to be a general menace.

Siangtan now has only soldiers in the city, the 7th that have been stationed here for years. The order on the street and the lack of troops is one of the most pleasant changes and the most encouraging event that has come our way for some time.

The report comes that Sun Yat-sen has a few troops who have entered Hunan, and are temporarily stationed south of Chenchow. It is the general opinion here that this is a stand made for political effect, and that he will in all probability not make a campaign against the North at this time.

Contrary to this report, however, comes word that Sun Yat-sen has scouts in Hengchow, who are seeking and placing in order buildings suitable for his headquarters in that city. The supposition is that he would make Hengchow his stopping place, and from there direct his forces against Wu Pei-fu, and on victoriously to North China.

SUN LOOKS FOR FUNDS

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 21.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen is about to call a conference of military and civil authorities of the southwestern provinces to discuss plans for the northern expedition, according to news received from Chinese sources. His greatest problem, however, is that of raising the necessary funds to finance the proposed campaign and conflicting news is on hand of his asking the Canton Government for $4,000,000 and of proposing a $10,000,000 loan.

The conference, which is to be held at Wuchow, will be attended by many military leaders and civil officials of the

At Aix-La-Chapelle this evening a Belgian gendarme arrested on board the Ostend-Vienna express a man named Rodriguez, who is alleged to be a dangerous anarchist returning from the Moscow Soviet Congress. His baggage contained a quantity of Bolshevik propaganda.

(Special To The China Press)

Paris, Oct. 24.—The police here report that more than 100 communists who have been refused passports have slipped through the immigration lines and reached the United States within the past two months.

Their purpose has been to cause trouble in the case of Vanzetti and Sacco, the two communists who are under sentence to be executed for murder.

In Paris it became known that the communists have threatened to blow up the offices of the American Reparations Committee and Passport Bureau tomorrow. Tomorrow is the day generally set for Anti-American demonstrations and the police are preparing to prevent gatherings of mobs near the American buildings.

Paris, Oct. 22.—At a Communist meeting today to protest against the condemnation of Sacco and Vanzetti, a bomb was thrown when the police were dispersing a noisy crowd at a door. Fifteen persons were injured, including twelve police.

At a disturbance at Havre when the police were dispersing demonstrators before the American Consulate a few persons were injured.

SEVEN ARE ARRESTED

Paris, Oct. 23.—Seven arrests have been made in connection with yesterday's bomb outrage, including a waitress named Lanthault who is suspected of throwing the bomb, which, similar to the one which exploded in the House of the American Ambassador, is believed to be of English pattern.

Shanghai Life One Long Parade Of Physiognomies

By Elsie McCormick

If you are one of the people who can't remember faces, you are as much out of place in the Far East as a colored janitress at a lecture on "Einstein's Theory as Applied to the Nebular Hypothesis." Talent for music counts for little out here, as the voice of the jazz-band is ever heard in the land and the demand for soloists at parties is null and void, except at sukiyakis, where there is an occasional call for such symphonies as "You Cannot Make Your Shimmy Shake on Tea."

The ability to paint plates for exposure on the dining-room shelf is likewise no key to social favor, and the person with a talent for public speaking soon finds that the necessity for orations is limited to "Where's the other half?" for a man; and "How many other women have you said that to?" for a girl. One of the few talents that really counts for anything in Shanghai is the ability to tie a name on each new face and remember a little of the object's hong connections, favorite sport, and precarious condition of matrimony.

For Shanghai is a city where the citizens drift in and out on the tide and where a directory, to be kept strictly up-to-date, would have to be issued in the form of hourly bulletins. Nobody has a circle of friends here; he has a procession of them, and he finally comes to feel like President Harding shaking hands with a long line at a White House reception, with three detectives standing by to see that nobody pulls out a handkerchief.

FORGET FACE FLUTINGS

Hence the ability to remember the various curves, convolutions and flutings on the facial surface of new acquaintances, coupled with a title and a few remarks, is an invaluable asset to dragging out an existence in the East. The sentiment, "I never could remember faces, but I'm pretty fair on names," or vice versa, makes a good conversational opening at a tea skirmish, but is a sad slogan under which to carry on for a term in Shanghai.

If you've never gone overboard and floated around for a time clutching at barrel-staves, you can get the same sensation by having a stranger greet you effusively and start a sprightly conversation while you grope wildly for clues. You smile fixidly at the stranger in a manner that seems as calm as a molluse taking its noonday siesta, but behind the mask you are running a moving-picture film of your past life, beginning with high-school and ending with the tea-dance day before yesterday.

Finally there is a dam in the flow of the dialogue and you seek to open the conversational sluice gates with some more general topics, so that the talk can't get too personal. "There was a big crowd at the Carlton last Saturday night, wasn't there?" you remark.

MIGHT CARRY BIBLES

"I—er, really can't say," says the partner in your verbal duet with a startled expression, "I wasn't in Shanghai last Saturday. You see, I'm still with the Smith Memorial Middle School in Chow-chow." And then, as you hastily back up and begin to scull furiously in the other direction, you are conscious of an acute ingrowing wish that missionaries didn't look so much like other people.

Our former idea of a missionary was a person about the girth of a drainpipe, clad in a top hat and a black dickie buttoned up under the chin, and preferably with a palmtree for a background. We were therefore considerably disappointed to learn that the Prince Albert species went out with Fox's Book

MORE OFFERINGS ARE SENT IN FOR AMERICAN SCHOOL

Though the one-week campaign to raise Tls. 150,000 for the American School closed last Saturday subscriptions for the fund are still being received, according to announcement made yesterday by Mr. W. W. Bartlett, principal of the school.

Nearly 100 subscriptions, many of them from the outports have been received since Saturday by the American School Campaign Committee. In the course of the week a final report is to be made on the total raised in the drive.

Plans for the erection of the first units of the new school are now being prepared by architects and the actual work of building is to be started with as little delay as possible.

KARL MAKES NEW DASH TO BUDAPEST; IS NEAR THRONE

Regent Reported Beaten Four Miles From The Capital City

SWISS ENRAGED

Ex-King Escapes By Air Plane To Burgenland Where Troops Wait

(Reuter's Service)

Vienna, Oct. 23.—The events in Hungary are difficult to appraise owing to the interruption of telephonic communication. Rumors are current that Karl has already entered Budapest. Defections among the Government troops are reported in several cases, notably that of the whole garrison at Oedenburg and part of the Budapest garrison. Karl's forces are estimated to be three divisions and Admiral Horthy's about the same.

London, Oct. 24.—According to a telegram from Budapest fighting is still proceeding between the Karlists and the Government troops, who hope to hold out until the arrival of reinforcements. The insurgents from Burgenland are stated to be marching against the Government. The Government has entrusted to the ex-Minister, Abbe Vass, the task of inviting Karl to leave the country immediately.

Paris, Oct. 23.—It is reported from Berlin that the Hungarian Regent, Admiral Horthy, has fled from Budapest.

CLASH WITH HORTHY

Vienna, Oct. 23.—A Budapest telegram states that the Karlists haev arrived at Budaoers, four miles from the capital, where they clashed with Government troops, whom Admiral Horthy is reported to be personally leading. The battle is still in progress.

Vienna, Oct. 23.—The ex-Emperor Karl arrived at Oedenburg in Burgenland by aeroplane yesterday. It is reported that he is proceeding to Budapest, escorted by Colonel Osztenburg's troops. A provisional Government under Count Julius Andrassy has been formed.

Vienna, Oct. 22.—The British Minister, Sir J. Lindley, last night received news of Karl's arrival in West Hungary and informed the Chancellor, who summoned a midnight Conference of the political leaders.

The troops at Oedemburg joined Karl immediately he arrived and proclaimed him King. A report of a march on Budapest is not confirmed.

Telegraphic and telephonic communication as well as railway communication with West Hungary is interrupted.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED

Budapest, Oct. 23.—Martial Law has been declared in the city. The Government is becoming master of the situation and has decided to take energetic action to end Karl's adventure.

It is semi-officially stated that by the Law of 1920 Karl cannot in any way exercise the rights of a sovereign in Hungary and must leave the country forthwith. The Government has taken the necessary measures.

TALKS TO ALLIES

Prague, Oct. 24.—After a Cabinet Council it was semi-officially stated yesterday that the Little Entente was determined to secure a definitive settlement of the Hapsburg question and had communicated with the Allies in that sense.

Vienna, Oct. 22.—The Entente representatives at Budapest have jointly protested against the return of Karl to the Hungarian Government.

Prague, October 23.—The Premier, Dr. Benes, announced today partial mobilisation and declared that the Little Entente was prepared to act in concert.

POWERS SEND NOTE

London, Oct. 23.—The Hungarian Legation in London states that Ministers of the Great Powers at Budapest have presented a Note to the Hungarian Government, repeating the decision of the Great Powers at the time of Karl's previous escapade in April last, and have asked the Government to take steps to remove Karl from Hungary without bloodshed emphasising that this is necessary in order to safeguard the peace of Europe. The Government replied that it was taking every step to induce Karl to leave the country.

It is stated that the Government has a sufficient force to prevent Karl's entry into Budapest. It is supposed that Karl has a few thousand troops.

TROOPS ACCOMPANY HIM

London, Oct. 22.—Information received by the Foreign Office states that Colonel Osztenburg's battalion at Oedenburg has been ordered to accompany Karl by train to Budapest. General Hedegus, who is accompanying Karl, has asked the Interallied Commission to remain at Oedenburg to guarantee its security.

A battalion of the Hungarian National Army has been urgently recalled from the frontier to relieve Colonel Osztenburg's troops. The question of the transfer of Burgenland to Austria will be decided by a new Hungarian Administration, headed by M. Radoveki, assisted by M. Cratz, the former Foreign Minister, and Counts Julius Andrassy and Albert Apponyi.

Reuter's Agency is informed that the fact that the Swiss Government allowed Karl to leave Switzerland has caused intense surprise. It is recalled that the Allied Governments have repeatedly declared that no Hapsburg will be allowed to return to the throne of Austria or Hungary.

CONFERENCE TO MEET

Paris, Oct. 23.—The Conference of Ambassadors will meet tomorrow to discuss the developments in the situation in Hungary.

Belgrade, Oct. 23.—In view of Karl's action, the Government has decided to take urgent measures.

EXPULSION SOUGHT

Berlin, Oct. 22.—According to a telegram from Budapest the Government has taken steps to expel Karl on the ground that under the 1920 law it is impossible for him at present to assume sovereign rights in Hungary.

RAILWAY TORN UP

Vienna, Oct. 22.—A report from Budapest states that the railway has been torn up between Budapest and Raab, preventing the train by which Karl is travelling from completing its journey.

Vienna, Oct. 22.—The representatives of the Little Entente have protested to Hungary against Karl's return, threatening intervention if the Karlist adventure were not suppressed. Italy's attitude is uncertain. The frontier has been strictly closed and all communication with Hungary stopped.

SWISS ARE WROTH

Berne, Oct. 23.—Karl's fresh escapade has produced a profoundly bad impression in Switzerland. It is fairly certain that Karl has burned his bridges inasmuch as the Federal Council will not allow him to return to Switzerland and will compel his accomplices to leave Switzerland forthwith.

Berne, Oct. 22.—Ex-emperor Karl left his residence in Switzerland on Wednesday for an unknown destination. It was given out that he desired to spend the anniversary of his marriage very tranquilly.

A number of persons appeared at the office of the Air Transport Company at Duebendorf on Tuesday and took four return tickets to Geneva. The aeroplane with a German pilot left on the afternoon of October 20, carrying five passengers, all muffled up so that it was impossible to see their faces. The Transport Company has up to the present received no news of the machine.

Berne, Oct. 22.—The Federal Council announced today that Karl had notified the Council in writing that his Hungarian supporters, influenced by the most urgent considerations and appealing to his (Karl's) oath of allegiance, had begged him to return with the Queen without delay to Hungary.

The Council has confirmed the report that Karl and his wife left Switzerland last Thursday by aeroplane. It deplores Karl's breach of Swiss hospitality and broken promise to abstain from all politics and inform the Government of his intentions.

Rome, Oct. 22.—The ex-Empress Zita accompanied Karl.

Headsman Spare That Neck! It May Not Suffer Twice

(China Press Correspondence)

Siangtan, Oct. 19.—A band of seven looters were recently arrested near our city, and were brought into the city and ordered to be executed. The heads of six were quickly chopped off, but on the seventh the knife did not seem to strike true, and a large chip was chopped out of the back of the fellow's neck as a result. Fearing that the fellow must have some special spirit acting as his guardian, no one dared to swing the knife at him again. He was taken to the local official and not only pardoned but given a letter of introduction to the Mission Hospital. A few hours later he entered the hospital resembling a tree that had been attacked by the woodsman, but left scarred and only about half-felled. The back of his neck was dressed day after day, and now he goes about the street, a free man having fully atoned for his crime.

PAPER TO ANSWER GRAVE CHARGE IN AMERICAN COURT

Charges of having published an indecent article on September 25 that have been filed against the Shanghai Journal of Commerce, a Chinese newspaper are to be heard in the United States Court for China at the next term of court.

The charge against the newspaper was filed by Maj. C. F. Holcomb, United States District Attorney on information supplied by the police. George E. Sokolsky, said to be one of the publishers of the paper, which is registered at the American Consulate, appeared on Saturday in the Court of U. S. Commissioner F. J. Schuhl and waived preliminary hearing of the case.

Commissioner Schuhl then fixed bond in the case at $1,000, which was given. The Shanghai Journal of Commerce is published on Foochow Road.

of Martyrs and that the new type runs to college hair-cuts, pinch-back suits, and silk hosiery. Except for a somewhat larger proportion of tortoise-shell rimmed glasses, there is no way to distinguish a group of missionaries from a slice of the general population. All of which still further complicates the problems of "Your-face-is-familiar-but-I-really-can't-place-you" sufferers.

We are reminded thereby of an occasion when we hoped to find a clew by inquiring, "Are you working for the same firm?" It seemed to be a very leading question to us and we considered it a real thought flash, until the questionee replied, "Yes, I am still a worker in the Vineyard." At this point we disappeared under the tablecloth and didn't come up for air until after the toothpick were passed.

Then there are the steamer acquaintances who bob up like unpaid bills and have memories as tenacious as the clutch of a clover burr on a wool stocking.

"So glad to see you again," said an utter stranger to us the other day, pressing our rings into our fingers. "How have you been since I saw you last?"

"Oh, quite all right except for a slight cold," we replied, rapidly opening and shutting various drawers in our memory.

"That's a considerable record for nearly two years in the Far East," said our friend, and then we suddenly recognised the person who sat at our table on the steamer in 1919 and whom we hadn't seen since.

Trying to place strangers in China lacks at least some of the dangers of that occupation at home. There is no possibility, for instance, of getting chummy with a book agent while laboring under the delusion that he is a forgotten friend with a legitimate claim on your acquaintance. Shanghai is not sufficiently literary to support a book-agent.

Neither is there the possibility of absent-mindedly saluting a street-car conductor on your line when you happen to see him without his regimentals or of bowing to the next-door ice-man on Sunday as he passes you in his flivver. Once when we played our two-fingered solo for a newspaper at home, we were assigned to the court-house beat and for months afterwards found ourselves greeting spruce-looking burglars who were temporarily out on bail.

There is one kind of snag, however, into which one is more likely to run in Shanghai than at home. Sometimes when we are introduced to a person, we try to make our new friend feel at ease by saying, "No, Mr. Jones, I haven't met you before, but I've often seen you at the Astor House with that stunning blond lady." At this point, Mr. Jones goes through the preliminary calesthenics of a person on the verge of an apoplectic seizure, and two seconds later we are introduced to Mrs. Jones, who is not blond.

Concerning the native population, the newcomer is unable to distinguish the cook from the housebody, or the compradore, from whom he is trying to collect money, from the shroff who is trying to collect it from him. After a few months in the Orient, however, Chinese faces clothe themselves in individuality, and while police descriptions regarding eyes and hair show a dreary lack of variation, one finds that eyes and hair are not so important after all and that it is quite possible to identify the ricsha coolie who coaxed away the family's Persian cat.

Strange as it may seem to us, Chinese find equal difficulty in distinguishing one foreigner from another. One need only refer to Mixed Court records in order to learn that every Westerner described there by a Chinese had red hair and a very white face.

And so, up and down the streets of Shanghai goes the constant procession of bright faces, sullen faces, faces we ought to remember and can't, and faces that we'd be glad to forget. There are some nationals who ignore acquaintances casually met at a dinner party and others who go to the opposite extreme and halt such acquaintances for a traffic-stopping conversation. There are come groups who give a lady the privilege of recognition and others who reserve the right of the first bow to the man.

Our only distinguishing contribution to the pageant of greeting is our ricsha smile. We always fold up our face about two seconds too late, with the result that we find our friend's ricsha hurtling onward and ourselves smiling amiably into the face of a perfect stranger riding in the vehicle just behind.

British Send Ship To Preach Industry Gospel

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 16.—According to present plans a specially designed Exhibition Ship, under the title of "British Industry," will set sail from the Thames in the summer of 1923, for the chief ports of the world. She will proceed to the West Coast of South America, where there will be four ports of call, viz., Bahia, Rio de Janeiro, Monte Video, Buenos Ayres.

She will then sail due East to South Africa, calling at Cape Town and Durban, and thence to Australia, where the ports of call will be Fremantle, Adelaide, Hobart, Sydney and Brisbane. After proceeding to New Zealand, and calling at Wellington, Lyttleton and Auckland, the ship will steer North by way of Fiji to Yokohama, Kobe, Shanghai and Hongkong.

Seven days are allowed for docking and repairs at Hongkong, and on the 358th day after leaving London the ship is timed to start on her homeward voyage via Manila, Saigon, Singapore, Batavia, Penang and Rangoon.

In India the ports to be visited are Calcutta, Madras, Colombo, Bombay and Karachi, and on the way home the vessel will make a short stay at Aden, Malta and Gibraltar.

TO GO 43,000 MILES

An examination of the itinerary shows that during a voyage of 18 months' duration, a distance of 43,000 miles will have been covered and 34 important trade centers visited. The table allows for a stay of from a week to a fortnight at each place, showing a total of 346 days during which the Exhibition will be open.

In mapping out the voyage care has been taken to reduce seapassages to a minimum. Trade centers will, therefore, be visited according to their geographical relationship, and the cruise has been so arranged that the voyage to India and the Far East will not coincide with the period of the South West Monsoon.

This British Trade Ship will be specially constructed for the purposes of an Exhibition, and every detail of her equipment from the engines to the fittings and furniture, will itself be an exhibit of British workmanship at its best. She will be as large as a first-class liner, having a gross tonnage of 20,000 tons and in her internal arrangements will differ from any ship that has ever been floated.

There will be eight decks, four of which will be devoted to the Exhibition proper. On the other decks, besides the numerous cabins set apart for the Trade Representatives who will undertake the journey, accommodation will be provided such as few buildings on shores can show.

Round a large reception hall are grouped the principal exhibition offices, an enquiry bureau, a bank, an insurance office, interpreters' offices, telephone exchange, writing rooms and cloak rooms. Opening out of the Grand Entrance Hall is a Restaurant capable of seating and dining 500 persons. A reception and ball room with domed roof extends nearly the whole length of the boat deck.

WILL USE CINEMA

A cinema which can be used for Exhibition purposes and for showing processes of manufacture, is installed at one end. At the after end is a verandah cafe. On the shelter, bridge and promenade decks are committee and private reception rooms, a spacious library, writing room and smoking room.

For many years the idea of chartering and equipping a vessel as a floating Exhibition of British manufacture to proceed overseas has been mooted and urged, but it has now come to be recognised that the mere conversion of an existing vessel is inadequate. The promoters of the present scheme realised that the first necessity was to construct a ship specially for this purpose.

They therefore approached Messrs. Swan Hunter and Wigham Richardson Ltd., who readily entered into their views and produced the design under notice. A company called the British Trade Ship Ltd. has been formed, with registered offices at 12, Grosvenor Gardens, S.W.1., and a strong board assembled under the Chairmanship of Earl Grey. Among the Directors are the Vice Chairman, Sir G. B. Hunter (Chairman of Messrs. Swan Hunter and Wigham Richardson Ltd.); the Duke of Northumberland, Commander R. W. Day, Major G. P. Denton, Sir Maxwell Hicks, Messrs. J. W. Beaumont Pease, Noel E. Peck, T. E. Thirlaway and Edmund Hill (General Secretary of the Federation of British Industries). The venture is likely to be of benefit to the export trade of the British Empire and makes a strong appeal to merchants and manufacturers.

The scheme of the Trade Ship is a great advance on the old-time bagman proceeding from town to town, and packing and repacking his meagre samples at each halting place. A comparison between the two methods will reveal an enormous saving of time and cost.

Dr. Hodgkin Addresses Large Audience Here

Civilisation is in a bad way, riding definitely to a disastrous fall unless humanity takes measures to apply a corrective; the Christain religion, while it may be said to have failed in its application gives more evidence of containing the fundamentals of a true social system than any other force yet brought to bear upon the problem. Therefore it appears to constitute the greatest hope of the races. But it is for the people of all classes to bring a patient and thorough observance of life, the results of scientific analysis and a great amount of concerted hard work to bear upon the subject, verifying its applicability and bringing it definitely into application.

Speaking before a large audience at the Lyceum Theater last evening Dr. T. H. Hodgkin, eminent English theological student and formerly a missionary to China, made the foregoing points in an interesting lecture which was the first of a series of five to be delivered by him this week.

Taking the subject "Has Christianity Failed" Dr. Hodgkin, who was introduced to his audience by Sir Everard Fraser, took first under consideration the world attitude toward the Christian religion. There is a large body, he said, who through personal experience, maintain the obvious success of Christianity and would regard the question propounded in the topic as superfluous. There is another large number who adhere to the opposite belief, holding that since it seems the whole of civilisation has failed, Christianity, with which it is so bound up, has failed also. A third element is that which regards the question as irrelevant, which admits the seeming non-success of the Christian religion, yet is wistful that it might still succeed.

The speaker quoted opinions on the subject by prominent men of other religious beliefs, expressive of admiration for the tenets of the creed but of bewilderment over the absence of actual practise and the evidences of materialism, conquest and conflict which they observed in present day Western civilisation.

Taking the assumption that in our civilisation Christianity must be regarded as a failure, the speaker said, this might be explained by three causes: that not sufficient thought has been given to the problem of applying its exalted creed to the needs of everyday life, that we have not dared to thus apply it and that we have not stopped professing this creed even though we may have definitely decided that it cannot be applied to a great deal of life.

Considering the case of Christ, Dr. Hodgkin said that taking the viewpoint of the force of his ideals as opposed to those of Rome no doubt He seemed to fail, crushed by the power examplified by Pilate. Yet the Roman Empire broke, because the seeds of its own decay were contained in its structure. In the nineteen hundred years succeeding there has been a growing influence arising from Christ's ideals, powerfully affecting great races.

If not to Christianity, the speaker said in conclusion, then where was civilisation to look for the solution of its problem. There was no other great religion and he saw no possibility of the birth of any great synthetic religion, nor could he believe that religion was to be forsaken altogether in a general satisfaction with the creed of materialism.

Mr. Hodgkin speaks again today at the Luceum on the subject "Can Christianity be applied to Commerce?"

Sun's Campaign Pauses; War Chest Still Empty

Southern Government and, it is hoped, by General Chen Chuing-ming. According to reports of the present plans of Dr. Sun the campaign will be lead by the Canton 'President" in person at the head of 100,000 men. Headquarters will be established at Kueilin and the expedition will start its campaign against the North from Chunchow and Kouchen. Dr. Wu Ting-fang will take charge of the Canton Government in the absence of its official head.

Two conditions must be fulfilled before this campaign can become a reality. The first of these is the approval and support of General Chen and the second is the raising of the necessary financial resources. Without General Chen the expedition will probably never materialise and according to all reports the question of raising the money is affording Dr. Sun a good deal of anxiety.

One report says that the Southern leader has asked the Canton treasury for $4,000,000, one half of it to be raised before the campaign starts and the other half to be raised at some later date, while other statements have been received to the effect that Dr. Sun is endeavoring to arrange for a $10,000,000 loan.

This report goes on to say that General Chang Tso-lin, General Tan Yen-k'ai, and other Mintang leaders have already arrived at Canton to assist in preparations for the campaign and that the officials of the General Staff and the Ministry of War have been instructed to purchase the necessary military supplies.

WHY ARE THESE MEN IN PRISON? DEMANDS CHITA

(Dalta News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 22.—Mr. Agaroff, Chairman of the Far Eastern Republic Mission in Peking, has forwarded the following memorandmud to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of China in connection with the case involving Mr. T. Falko, Mr. V. Falko and Mr. V. Lissenin, citizens of the Far Eastern Republic:

"Three employees of the Ministry of Food and Commerce of the Far Eastern Republic, T. and V. Falko and V. Lissenin, have been confined in the Peking prison for two weeks.

"These persons were arrested by the Harbin Secret Service on their arrival from Chita in April, 1921, for alleged possession of a stamp for counterfeiting dollars. This stamp, as was proved later, was concealed in their room by agents of the Secret Service which is to a great extent composed of Ungernists and Semenoffists. The latter, in the capacity of agents of the Secret Service, have made it their task to arrest all employes of the Government of the Far Eastern Republic coming to Harbin, and thus terrorised the entire Russian and Chinese population in the railway zone.

"The two Falko brothers and Lissenin came to Harbin under the instruction of the Ministry of Food and Commerce to make purchases from the Centrosoyus. For this purpose they carried with them large sums of money, which were taken from them at the time of the search.

ALL ARE ACQUITTED

"Shortly after their case was submitted to the attorney of the District Court, the defendents were released on bail, and on July 5 this year all of them were acquitted by the decision of the District Court of the Special Area.

"However, in spite of the acquittal by the Court, the Chinese Secret Service arrested them again, accusing them either of bribing the court officials or of some kind of propaganda. Consequently a new case was opened, but on the eve of the completion of investigation, which obviously called for another acquittal, the defendants, according to the instruction of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, were sent to Mukden and thence were transferred to the Peking prison. There they are now held without knowing with what crime they are charged, as no charge has been preferred against them up to the present moment.

"The above-mentioned arrested citizens of the Far Eastern Republic have now appealed to me for protection, as they have greatly suffered mentally and physically during the last six months while they were under indictment and were being moved from one Chinese prison to another.

"The two Falko brothers and Lissenin have informed me that their previous requests for release on bail were rejected on the ground that the depositions of the agents of the Secret Service were inconsistent and that therefore they must be questioned once more. In regard to this it is necessary to take into consideration that all previous charges against them were based exclusively on inconsistent depositions and fraudulent insinuations, and that they cannot reasonably be charged with any crime.

ASKS RELEASE NOW

"Considering the fact that the innocence of the accused persons was recognised by the Chinese court; that all charges against them are based exclusively on fraudulent and inconsistent depositions without any specific charges whatever and the arrested persons are at present in a most difficult position, the Mission hereby asks the Chinese Government to release them immediately on bail as well as to decide the case promptly in the Courts.

"The two Falko brothers and Mr. Lissenin were released on bail in Harbin, and by their appearance in the Court in response to the summons they have proven that they do not intend to evade justice in case any substantial charges are made against them.

"Relying on international law and usage, which demand careful and civil treatment of citizens of other friendly Powers, the Mission expresses its full belief that the Chinese Government will grant the foregoing requests."

The advisor stated that he did not know when the Cossack chief was going to Siam, though the time of his departure was not far distant.

SIEMSSEN AND MARTIN EACH THROW UP SPONGE IN BOUTS WITH TITANIA'S SCRAPPERS

Shanghai's Stars Both Out Of Condition Unable To Stand Up To Sailors Strong Milling; Honors Divided In Tourney, 3 Events To Club, 3 To Navy

Shanghai's two best boxers threw the towel into the ring at the boxing tournament between the Shanghai Amateur Boxing Club and the British Cruiser Titania last night at the Shanghai Public School gymnasium. Eddie Siemssen, the clever welterweigh, who on his last appearance here in public, won by the K. O. route over a Carlisle sailor, gave up at the end of his third round with Sailor Mean, and R. B. Martin, ranked by many local fans as the best boxer in town, quit in distress after four rounds in the main event with Darbyshire, a sailor 14 lbs. lighter than he.

Both Siemssen and Martin were evidently out of condition. The former appeared to have too much weight, and not much liking for the milling that Mean was bringing to him. Martin stayed with his shifty, fighting opponent until the end of the fourth round when he began to suffer cramps. He was practically carried to the dressing room, though he recovered after a short rest.

The surprising and disappointing performances of Siemssen and Martin however did not lessen the public's high opinion of the two sailors, for both men were boxers and fighters, and would have made a worthy showing even though the two local stars were at their best.

DARBY WAS A FIGHTER

The main bout, that between Martin and Darbyshire while it lasted was a mixture of fighting and feinting. Darbyshire did most of the former, and Martin more of the latter.

The sailor showed at the outset that he was a mixer. He was coming at Martin every second, and though lighter he soon showed that he was a heavy hitter as well as a clever defensive fighter. Martin mixed it at close quarters whenever he could get the little sailor cornered, which was seldom. Both men went through the ropes in the first round in fierce rushing attacks. No serious damage however was done by either. Darbyshire was extremely clever at ducking and blocking, and getting away. Martin had little chance to show. Darbyshire was all over him, and away again.

In the second round the sailor got in several stiff jabs to the face, always backing away from Martin's attack. Forcing the pace after the first minute he soon had Martin panting with a clever rushing, jabbing, hooking attack. Martin did not count much except in the close-up mixing, in which honors were about even.

The third round found Darbyshire continuing his springing, reaching jab and hook offensive, and once forced Martin clear through the ropes. Martin sought to corner the sailor but the latter was too clever on the defensive to get to close-up fighting until he felt in the mood. When the men finally got together in the center of the ring, they both tired themselves in harmless slugging. Martin backed off and tried two swinging uppercuts which the sailor backed got away from. He came back with a good left jab and a strong right hook, and with a little infighting about the head the round ended.

The last round saw Martin trying to corner his man, but the sailor continuing his own offensive kept out of harm's reach. A little sluggish toe-to-toe fighting brought the round to a close.

SIEMSSEN COULDN'T LAST

Eddie Siemssen had all the style at the opening of his bout with Mean. He began with a rushing attack that had Mean to the ropes often. It was hammer and tongs fighting for a time. In the second round the sailor came up strong, and Siemssen slowed down just as much. Mean straightened Siemssen up out of his crouching defense with several clean uppercuts, and beat him out of his cover every time he sought to stall. Siemssen stood up a bit in the third round and landed a few effective blows to body and head, but Mean kept to him and soon forced him to cover again. Siemssen didn't seem to like the going. During the interval he threw in the towel.

The total of the six events of the night were divided off three to the Navy and three to the Boxing Club. C. Siemssen won the first bout in the fourth rounds, when Popple quit. The Shanghai boy gave one of the best exhibitions of the program. The men were fairly well watched though Siemssen's boxing class, his stiff jabbing and his clever defensive gave him the advantage.

Carlson of the Boxing Club got a decision over Douglas, a sailor.

U. OF WASH NINE LOSES SERIES TO WASEDA COLLEGE

Five Errors Give Japanese The Win In Teams' Seventh Game

Kobe, Oct. 20.—With each team having won three and lost three, the University of Washington baseball team played its seventh game with Waseda University at Naruo yesterday, and lost 3—1. Washington gave their opponents all their three runs on errors, and lost chance after chance to score themselves.

Waseda, although unable to do anything with Leonard's pitching, took full advantage of all their opponents' misplays, and played an air-tight defensive game themselves. Kubota, who looks like one of the best Japanese shortstops in the game, made several good stops and throws, and Takamatsu made a sensational back-hand stab of a foul ball fram Welts' bat.

Leonard, who pitched an excellent game, and would have won easily with any kind of support from his team-mates, drove in Washington's only run with a pretty two-bagger to left field.

A peculiar play took place in the sixth inning, after Bakke had singled with none down. Land hit a pop fly, and as it was evidently right in Tominaga's hands, Bakke held his base. Tominaga, seing the chance for a double play, let the ball drop, but instead of touching Bakke or throwing to second base, threw to first, thus putting out Land, but relieving Bakke of the force. As always seems to be the case on any play that is out of the ordinary, the Japanese umpires were completely nonplussed and it took fully five minutes to convince them that Bakke was not also out on the play.

The score by innings:

Pitches 19-Inning Game, Last Nine Of Which Were Hitless

Frank Davis of the St. Louis Browns, who established the season's record for longevity of pitching in the major league. This piece of pitching machinery, whose frail build belies the great physical strength he displayed in hurling the Browns to a nineteen-inning triumph over the Washingtons, hails from Winston-Salem, N. C., which accounts for his nickname, "Dixie." Davis is twenty-eight and is seeing his second season with the Browns. He obtained most of his experience with the Columbus and Louisville clubs of the American Association. After yielding thirteen safeties and six runs in the first ten frames, Dixie breezed through the last nine rounds without allowing a semblance of a safety.

Rocky Kansas Beats Tendler In Fifteen Rounds

New York, October 25.—Rocky Kansas put a crimp in Lew Tendler's championship ambitions at the Madison Square Garden last night when Kansas won a hard-fought fifteen-round battle.

Tendler has been figured as the logical contender to Benny Leonard's crown.

It is probable that Kansas and Tendler will fight a return match shortly, the winner to meet Leonard for the world's lightweight title.

CUSTOMS BEATS NAVY 3-2 AT HONGKEW PARK; NAVY-FUHTAN MEET THIS AFTENOON AT 3

Police Meet St. John's Tomorrow Commencing At 3:30; Final Practice Matches Are Working Up To Season's Opening Next Saturday

The Customs football team beat the eleven of the British ship Titania at Hongkew Park yesterday by a score of 3-2.

The Navy men although handicapped by the absence of their inside right, McHendry, played a very fine sporting game in which McGann was very prominent with his tricky footwork.

In the first half Coxall for the Customs scored by taking the ball through and beating the goalie. At half time the Customs were 1 up.

Return to play saw the Navy pressing and in very quick succession McGann with a very fine shot scored the first for his team, followed by Powell, who made the best of a scrimmage in front of the goal, putting the Navy one ahead of the Opium Chasers.

After that Ogden broke through and scored with a low drive making the score 2 all. Five minutes before time Coxall again scored for the Customs from a center from Ogden.

Chief Stoker Masters of the Titania refereed to everyone's satisfaction.

NAVY-FUHTAN TODAY

The Navy eleven, represented by the Parent ship Titania and her four submarines, meet the team of the Fuhtan university on the latter's grounds at 3 o'clock this afternoon, in the last game in which they participate before sailing for the South and Home.

The game this afternoon substitutes that scheduled between the Navy and the Police, which had been tentatively arranged but cancelled because the police tomorrow are matched with St. John's.

The Navy footballers promise for this afternoon that they will play the same lineup that opposed the Police and the Recs, which, the university men say will insure a good game in spite of the Navy's strength.

Fuhtan this year has a good side. They showed better than the police in their match Saturday; they have defeated the Customs, and they have played a scoreless match with the South China team, which made such a strong showing here in the last Olympics and Open Games.

POLICE vs. ST. JOHN'S

The Eleven of the Shanghai Municipal Police will meet the team of St. John's University at the college grounds tomorrow with the kick off set for 3:30 o'clock.

The following have been selected to represent the police: Cameron, McDanold, Quayle, Munson, G. E. Knight, Crowley, Hotchkiss, Ling, Watson, Carnell and Worwood.

OLDEST TENNIS TO BE RESTORED

(China Press Correspondence)

Tennis is being resumed on the famous court at Hampton Court. Built and played upon by Henry VIII., this court, which has just been repaired, has served as a model for all other courts in the world.

For the last 80 years the court has been used by the Royal Tennis Court Club. It was on this court that Bluff King Hal was seen playing by the Venetian Ambassador Guisdiniani, who wrote home saying that the King "is extremely fond of tennis, at which game it is the prettiest sight n the world to see him play, his fair skin showing through a shirt of the finest texture." After his game the King always donned a splendid coat of blue velvet.

Mr. Ernest Law, the historian of Hampton Court, told a reporter that he well remembers King Edward VII. playing on the court when he was Prince of Wales.

Mr. Alfred White, professional of the Royal Tennis Court, said that tennis is rapidly returning to favor. "England has by far the most courts" he said. "There are about 30 in the country altogether, but they are not all in use."

Tennis is England's oldest game. It is played in an enclosed court with a penthouse—a roof sloping from the wall on three sides. The ball may be served on to the penthouse and is similar to that used in "fives."

Two Henry VIII. tennis balls were found last year among the rafters of Westminster Hall.

Macario Villon Defeats Flores And Gets Title

Manila, October 12.—Macario Villon is the new lightweight champion of the Orient.

Villon won from Elino Flores, the champion, by a foul, after he had outfought Flores seven out of the ten rounds, punishing him severely.

It was a great fight from the opening gong, but the result was evident all the way. Flores, the undisputed champion through his defeat of all the Australian and American fighters who have invaded the Philippines as well as Filipino boxers, was unable to stand up against Villon, who has just returned from a tour of Australia in which he defeated all the leading Australian boxers.

The sixth was the only round in which Flores obtained a clear lead. He rained blow after blow on Villon in whirlwind fashion and forced Villon to retreat numerous times. Seven rounds, however, were Villon's by a good margin.

In the tenth round Flores fouled Villon with a left blow which went low and Villon went to the floor in evident pain.

Quartette Charged As Armed Robbers Grow Noisy In Court

Four men charged with being members of an organised band of armed robbers created such a disturbance in the dock following the hearing of police evidence in the Mixed Court yesterday that they had to be forcibly removed from the court room.

The men were arrested by Detective Inspector Prosser and other police officers after a tussle in a tea shop at 302 Purdon Road. A badly bruised face exhibited by one of the prisoners was testimony of the fierceness of the struggle. Two of the quarette were found to be in possession of loaded revolvers and a third had a knife.

After the police had asked and been granted a remand in the case the prisoners started shouting out their protestations of innocence and refused to come to order.

ROBBERS ESCAPE DEATH PENALTY; GET LONG TERMS

Li Van-hyang, Li Da Hyi-tsz and Hoo Da Oo-tsz, coolies, and Wong Siau-Sz-tsz, riesha coolie for a Chinese detective, will begin this week serving prison terms of 20 years each after having been convicted yesterday in the Mixed Court on charges of robberies. The sentences were imposed by Assessor Hutchison and Magistrate Li. The Court announced that prison terms were given instead of the usual death penalty for the offense by reason of the youth of the defendants. One is 18 years old and the oldest is 21.

The robberies committed by the quartette were at a house at No. 315 Hailor Road on January 13, when $30 was taken, and at a pawnshop at 345-346 Dixwell Road on June 1, when $100 was taken. The four culprits were arrested by Detective-Sergt. Ross and Detective Kwei Tsung-yui.

Over 9,000 Raised In Y.W.C.A. Drive; Rally Tomorrow

Over $9,000 has been raised thus far in the Y.W.C.A. drive and it is hoped that at the rally to be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the reports will show that the $15,000 goal has been reached. The rally was to have been held yesterday but was postponed.

Mrs. C. W. Atkinson's team was ahead at the last rally with Mrs. T. T. Woo's team of girls a close second. Mrs. Atkinson reported $1,500 and Mrs. Woo more than $1,400.

The Y. W. C. A. campaign workers will strive especially hard for results this week now that the American School campaign has been ended.

The decision was not too popular. The sailor, even though lighter than the school boy, it was felt, had earned a draw. Carlson had better boxing ability, but the sailor was persistently aggressive and was doing good execution.

Sailor Madell got a decision over F. W. Wilson after eight rounds of clever boxing by both men. Madell was leading most of the time and had a more direct attack. Wilson had a hay-making swing always poised for delivery but failed to land it. Madell's jabbing and hooking attack had Wilson feeling his blows after the sixth round. The decision was popular.

Johansson of the Club won a 6 round decision over Taylor of the Titania by outclassing his man in everything but courage. The sailor was willing throughout the bout but the Shanghai boy had the bout won from the first round.

After the bouts Judge Skinner Turner introduced Captain C. S. Benning, of the Titania, who presented the prizes which were donated by the Club, Boyes Bassett, R. Picozzi, J. Gunn, and F. Pariani. The officials were Engr. Lieut. Commander Jackson, R. N., referees; G. E. Matthews, Dr. M. O'Hara, judges; P. W. Bennett, timekeeper; Mr. G. H. Parkes, secretary and instructor.

COMMITTEE WILL LOOK TO RUBBER

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 23.—Mr. Winston Churchill has appointed a committee under the Chairmanship of Sir James Stevenson and including a number of prominent representatives of rubber interests for the purpose of investigating the present rubber situation in the British Colonies and Protectorates and to advise the Secretary of State as to what measures should be taken to improve the existing situation.

TEA TRADE ON RISE

London, Oct. 23.—At a meeting of Messrs. Harrison and Crosfield today, the Chairman said, inter alia, that the position of the tea industry was much improved and it was probable that the world's production in 1921 would be 600,000,000 pounds as against a probable consumption of 700,000,000.

When business with Russia became possible the demand must exceed the limits of production. As a result of the restrictions, the total production of raw rubber this year would probably not exceed 280,000 tons and the amount bought by manufacturer for the same period 250,000.

It was safe to conclude that by the end of the year invisible stocks of raw and manufactured rubber would be used up to the fullest extent possible and that next year the demand for raw rubber must again fully equal actual consumption and amount to not less than 300,000 or 350,000 tons. No source of rubber consumption could be said to be declining but on the contrary new uses were being added to those already in existence.

WIRTH LAMENTS GERMAN TOWNS GIVEN TO POLES

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Oct. 22.—In a letter to the President submitting his resignation, Dr. Wirth maintained that he had done his utmost to fulfil the Treaty obligations.

It might have been expected that the occupation of the Ruhr district would have ceased and a just solution of the Silesian question found, instead of which not only extensive tracts of Upper Silesia but flourishing German towns, a great portion of the mineral wealth, and four-fifths of the factories besides a large section of the German population were to be torn from the German homeland.

Dr. Wirth said he was convinced that the possibilities of the fulfilment of the obligations had been materially reduced and thereby a new situation had arisen. He therefore resigned.

WIRTH CABINET OUT

Berlin, Oct. 22.—The Wirth Cabinet has resigned.

Paris, Oct. 23.—A telegram from Berlin states that Dr. Wirth has agreed to reconstruct the Cabinet on the same basis as at present.

SILESIANS TO ACCEPT

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 22.—The decision of the Allies has produced a profound impression on the population of Upper Silesia. The joy of the population in the districts assigned to Poland is beyond bounds whilst on the other the Poles in the districts which are to pass to Germany are correspondingly depressed.

Nevertheless they declare that they will conform to the decision of the Allies if such is the desire of the Polish Government. In the districts assigned to Poland, the Germans are maintaining the greatest reserve.

that the integrity of China must be preserved and Japan must understand the necessity of abandoning all claims to concessions and spheres of influence, impairing that integrity.

Washington is being filled, in anticipation of the Conference, with guesses as to its duration which vary from three weeks to three months.

BRITAIN SENDS 55

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 22.—The complete list of the British Mission to the Washington Conference numbers 55 besides the clerical staffs. In addition to the principal delegates, cabled earlier, Sir Auckland Geddes will officiate in the absence of the Premier.

The delegates will be assisted by a galaxy of political, military and naval experts, including Sir John Jordan, Mr. H. G. Wedderburn and Mr. Miles Lampson.

AMERICANS MEET

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 23.—The American delegates to the disarmament conference will meet with Secretary of State Hughes tomorrow to secure additional data on the conference.

It was learned that the American officials do not expect the immigration restrictions affecting the Japanese and Chinese will have any part in the deliberations of the conference. It was pointed out that all countries, including Japan have recognised immigration as a domestic problem.

It was further pointed out that no questions not embodied in the general outline of the accepted program could be added without specific agreement of the governments participating in the conference. This again emphasizes that the conference will be a meeting of equals and involves no voting or majority rule.

DRAFT PROPOSALS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 22.—Assuming that the Powers taking part in the Conference will expect America to take the initiative, the American delegates to the Conference are drafting definite proposals as the basis of a disarmament agreement.

SMUTS SPEAKS UP

(Reuter's Service)

Pretoria, Oct. 22.—General Smuts, in the course of a speech today, referring to the composition of the British Empire Delegation to Washington, said that he had gathered from the press that the Dominions had not been invited to the Conference.

He added that if the Pacific Dominions attended without a direct invitation from America sent through British diplomatic channels a serious setback would be given to the status of Dominion nationhood which had been achieved at the Paris Conference, where the United States alone had remained outside of the general recognition of the equality of status of the Dominions.

If South Africa appeared at an international conference it would be in her own right and not by the cover of the international rights of the British Government.

YEN STILL UNDECIDED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 21.—It is officially stated that the reports of the withdrawal of Dr. Wang Chung-hui from the Chinese Delegation to Washington are incorrect, that he is still in Europe but will leave shortly for America.

Dr. Wellington Koo will leave London for America on the 25th instant, and Mr. Chow Tze-chi will start for America from Shanghai on the 25th instant.

Dr. W. W. Yen, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has not yet decided whether or not he can go to Washington but the question will probably be decided within the next few days. In the event of his not joining the Delegation Dr. Wang Chung-huai may be appointed head of the Delegation. The first party of the Delegation is due to arrive at Honolulu today.

SHANTUNG HAS DELEGATES

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 20.—General Tien Chung-yu, Tuchun of Shantung has informed the Government that the public bodies of his province have elected five delegates to represent Shantung at the Pacific Conference, and he accordingly asks that the Government issue passports for them.

In his telegram General Tien remarks that Shantung has subscribed 30,000 dollars toward the expenses of the Chinese delegation to Washington.

Tokio, Oct. 22.—The Premier, speaking at a local Seiyukai meeting, expressed disappointment at the Chinese attitude towards the Japanese overtures regarding Shantung, which were made in a spirit of true sincerity and desire to promote the friendship and mutual welfare essential for the peace of the Far East. The Japanese Government was ready to negotiate, whenever approached by China.

N. Y. CHINESE PARADE

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 16.—The tip of Manhattan Island, financial part of the white man's world, today took on a touch of the Orient.

As a demonstration in favor of permitting South China a place at the coming Washington conference on limitation of armaments and the Pacific question, several thousand Chinese topped off a mass meeting in City Park with a parade down lower Broadway to the Battery and back to Chinatown.

The parade, which partially blocked traffic for nearly an hour and attracted thousands of spectators, who deserted their offices to line the sidewalks while the novel procession passed, headed by two bands.

Following their leaders who rode in automobiles, the Chinese marched four abreast, each carrying an American flag or the red, white, blue and yellow of the Canton government. Banners carried over the heads of the marchers bore such legends as "Peking-Militarism, Canton-Democracy," "Americans love fair play" "Give China a chance." "Give 200 000.000 Chinese a voice in the Washington Conference."

AEROPLANES ARE USED

Overhead, scattering leaflets, circled three aeroplanes, one was piloted by Wen Kam-man, a Chinese military aviator. The other machines also carried Chinese.

At the mass meeting, which was addressed by Health Commissioner Copeland on behalf of Mayor Hylan, resolutions were adopted asserting that the Canton Government of Sun Yat-sen was the legal power in China and calling on the United States to give its representatives a hearing when Far Eastern questions were discussed at Washington. Ma Soo, Sun Yat-sen's representative in Washington was another speaker.

After the meeting the following message was telegraphed to Secretary of State Hughes:

"We beg most earnestly to call your attention to the absolute necessity of a separate delegation representing the South China Republic, of which Sun Yat Sen is president, to participate in the coming Pacific conference in Washington. The Peking government, being illegitimate, corrupt and hopelessly committed to Japan, cannot represent the true interests of China and will not speak for all of China. Unless a separate delegation from South China is invited China's participation in the conference will be a farce."

FRENCH MINES OUTPUT MAKES QUICK RECOVERY

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 23.—The Journee Industrielle in an article today on the situation on the coal mining districts in the devastated regions of Northern France says that silently stages have been passed and progress made. The results obtained from the point of view of production are shown in the following figures:

The net output of the mines in Northern France, which were occupied by the Germans, nil in 1918, reached 60,000 tons in August 1919 and 480,000 tons in August 1921. The average production in 1913 was 1,500,000 tons.

The damage was more considerable in the Pas de Calais than in the Nord where in general the shafts had not been systematically destroyed or flooded. In the Pas de Calais the resumption of consumption demanded the repair of shafts and pumping out which is a delicate and difficult operation. The Journee Industrielle announces that the clearing away of the debris is almost complete.

In more than half of the 200 mines in the province, the shoring had to be renewed, set up again or repaired. Twenty-four mines were provisionally reshored with timber. The delivery of the first consignment of machinery in the spring of 1920 permitted production to a certain extent, which provided the means for development.

IMPROVEMENT IN POWER

The reconstruction of the electric powerstations has been pushed forward and at present there are 17,000 kilowatts at the disposal of the Nord and 15,600 at the disposal of the Pas de Calais. The situation is rapidly improving and should be quite satisfactory by 1922 when large stations of 30,000 to 60,000 kilowatts will have been erected.

The mines of the Nord have all resumed production with the exception of one section which is still flooded and production in this province has now reached 55 percent of prewar production. The repair of the underground workings is well advanced and has been completed at Thyvencelles, half finished at Anzin and a third at Aniche.

In the Pas de Calais the work of clearing and recementing the works around the pitheads is complete. The pumping of the pits is progressing favorably and has been completed at Ostricourt, Lens, Meurchin, Lievin, Vimy and Courrieres.

The reconstruction of the underground workings is almost finished at Ostricourt and is well on the way to completion at Ourges. It is well advanced in the other sections where the pits remained flooded uptil the beginning of 1921. As soon as the pumping reduced the water, work was immediately begun on repairing the galleries.

ALL BUT TWO RESUME

All the mines have resumed some slight production except at Drocourt and Vimy. The total production in the Pas de Calais is now 18 percent of the prewar total.

The mines, which were held by the Germans, now employ 60,000 workers as against 100,000 in 1913. Out of this total 34,000 are working below the surface and 15,000 at the pitheads. The men at work on repair number 12,000.

The workers' dwellings have all been reconstructed or replaced at the Nord mines, three-quarters of the Dourges mines and half at the Drocourt mines. At the other mines this work is proceeding rapidly.

Shooting Victims Reveal Illegal Traffic In Arms

Startling Disclosures Contained In Stories Told By Two Wounded In Frenchtown Affray

In detailed statements that have been made to the French police by M. Pavitch and the Japanese, M. Ikutalo, victims in the recent sensational shooting affray in the French Concession frank admissions have been made by both that they were illegally trafficking in arms.

Pavitch, who underwent a most delicate operation at the hands of Dr. H. Fresson shortly after the shooting at Pavitch's home at 114 Avenue Joffre, has made a most remarkable recovery from a wound that ordinarily would be regarded as fatal and it is said he will be able to leave hospital in two weeks.

The statements of the two men to the French police differ in an essential particular. While Pavitch asserts that Ikutalo shot him without warning, the Japanese on the other hand declares that he was defending himself in the affray. He says that Pavitch shot himself.

VICTIM'S OWN STORY

Pavitch relates that on the morning before the shooting he visited a house occupied by Japanese and located near the Japanese Post Office. He went there, he said, to buy an automatic pistol of German manufacture—a Mauser—and he said he gave Ikutalo the sum of $253 for the weapon at the same time, however, raising a question about the authenticity of its German origin.

A wholly interesting sidelight on the arms situation in Shanghai is given in the statement of this admitted trafficker in arms, for when the French police suggested that $253 was an exceedingly high price to pay for a weapon of the kind, Pavitch gave an enlightening reply.

"I could have sold it easily," he said, "for $300."

The police admit that this statement is not extreme, as it is known that one outcome of the recent strife far up the Yangtsze and in Szechuen province Chinese there have been willing to pay unheard of prices for arms and ammunition. And by reason of this state of affairs the illegal traffic in small arms has grown to immense proportions, offering as it does immense profits.

GO TO HIS HOUSE

Continuing, Pavitch told the police that after he had questioned whether the weapon he had bought was a genuine Mauser, meeting with vehement assurances on the point from the Japanese, he told Ikutalo to come with him to his house. He wanted to show the Japanese what a real Mauser looked like, and how it was trade marked, he said.

He related that he and Ikutalo went together to his home on Avenue Joffre in rickshas. When they arrived at the Avenue Joffre house they went to the upper room in which the trouble started. Pavitch said he was exhibiting a loaded pistol that he had picked up from a table to his guest and it was then he said that the Japanese shot him without warning. He said the other shots, one of which wounded Ikutalo in the left hand were fired in the struggle that followed.

IKUTALO'S STORY

Without denying or affirming the other statements Pavitch had made, Ikutalo declared that when they arrived in the upper room of the Pavitch house Pavitch tried to rob him. The Japanese said Pavitch menaced him with a loaded weapon and after he had brushed it aside and clinched with the Dalmatian the weapon went off.

It was then that Pavitch was shot, the Japanese declared, at a time when Pavitch had the weapon in his own hands. One of the subsequent shots, Ikutalo said, caused the wound in his own hand.

It has not yet been announced exactly what the nature of the charges to be made against the two will be.

Trade Envoys Plan Urged Upon Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 21.—The Ministry of Commerce and Agriculture has pointed out to the Cabinet that it is the practice of other Powers to appoint Commercial Attaches for service with Embassies and Legations abroad.

The Ministry finds that this practice has proved successful in assisting trade and considers that notwithstanding the financial stress in China, measures should be taken for China to follow the example of the other Powers in this respect, in view of the fact that China's trade interests abroad are continually increasing and of the great field for their further development.

It is added by the Ministry that Commercial Attaches should be appointed not only in the great countries but especially in those which have become treaty Powers since the war and which, therefore, are now engaged in establishing trade relations throughout the world.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

October 24, 1921.

Spot and forward bar silver were each down 1/8d. in London Saturday. The New York price declined to 70⅞ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 393⅜.

The official rates here this morning were unchanged from Saturday with the exception of the Yen rate which was raised to 61. However, the market, while opening fairly steady, quickly eased off, and the official Sterling quotation was therefore dropped to 3/11, the Gold Dollar rate to 77 and the Yen rate raised to 62½.

After the drop in rates the market still remained weak it being difficult to find sellers at the official quotation for October delivery, while for December there were good buyers of Sterling at 3/9¼ at the Tiffin interval. There were occasional sellers of Gold Dollars for October delivery at 76¾ and for December at 74½.

The market in general, however, was very weak and it is quite likely, as a result of our market here that the London price of silver should take a substantial drop within the next day or two.

Alleged Burglar To Face Court On Sixteen Charges

Tsang Ah-hoo, who has a unique record for the robbery of foreigners' residences, according to the police, is to be called to answer no less than sixteen separate charges in the Mixed Court. When he was arraigned in the Mixed Court yesterday he entered a general denial of his guilt. Detective Sergt. Beer and Detective Sung Dzung-li said, however, that evidence could be presented showing that Tsang not only was responsible for sixteen robberies but also for a number of others. The hearing then was continued for two weeks.

Tsang is charged with robbery of houses at 10 Haifong Road, 22 Jessfield Road, 60 and 45 Seymour Road, 19, 12 and 1 Kaichow Road, 46 and 57 Hart Road, 17 Connaught Road, 19 and 30 Kinnear Road, 181 Sinza Road, 61, 35 and 20 Yu Yuen Road, 20 Gordon Road and 5 Singapore Road.

COTTON GROWERS PLAN ACREAGE CUT TO QUARTER

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 16 (by mail).—For the first time in a fortnight or more, cotton fluctuations have returned to something like normal proportions. The Texas storm of last Friday and Saturday which produced heavy floods and considerable loss of life in South Central Texas, created considerable excitement in trade circles, but, while considerable damage was done to the grade of cotton, and there was some loss of the staple, the rains were said to have revived top-crop prospects in other localities, and recent weather conditions have been more favorable over the belt in general.

According to the latest unofficial advices, the Texas actual storm loss ranged between 100,000 and 150,000 bales while the grade was lowered over several thousand miles. The "basis" jumped rapidly following the rains, and Texas quotations advanced from 50 to 70 points "on" New York October.

So far there has been no pressure to sell spot holdings, but sales have been liberal on the advance. A number of the larger Southern Banks are advertising in the newspapers, offering cotton growers loans on their crops at 75 percent of their value, with no limit placed on the total amount of money available. The American Cotton Association has requested leading banks in the various counties of the cotton belt to grant loans on cotton for a twelve month period on 20 percent of the county's production, and setting aside this 20 percent of the crop until the end of the season, using the best grades for this purpose.

This request is stated to have met with a full response. The Association at this writing is holding a conference at New Orleans, where the question of abandoning cotton production for a full year on the one hand, and the limiting of one-fourth of the land under cultivation to cotton, is under serious discussion. The Association is said to be favorable to the latter plan.

Weakness in the foreign exchange market has been an unsettling factor during the week. Continental exchanges showing the greatest declines. Offerings of cotton bills have been heavier, and it is reported that freight room has been engaged for 460,000 bales for shipment from Galveston to France and the Continent between now and the end of the year.

Little has been heard of buying by British importers, but Japanese buyers have been active in the Southwest and other sections of the cotton belt. Domestic mills during the past several days have displayed greater buying interest and it is also believed that they have been hedging their requirements by purchasing future contracts on all declines. Domestic mill consumption during August, according to a census Bureau report issued this week, totalled 467,103 bales, an increase of 57,000 bales over July and only 16,000 bales below the figures of August, 1920.

Cotton goods markets are still confused, with manufacturers more inclined to await settled conditions in raw cotton than to make extreme prices, which they fear will check demand. Buyers are attempting to place orders at moderate advances, but are slow to increase their bids. The result has been a small total business, chiefly from second hands and for prompt goods. Mill curtailment shows irregular changes, some Northern plants reducing operations until the raw cotton situation becomes more clarified, whereas a number of Southern cloth and yarn mills have extended operations to night shifts and are stocking up manufactured goods.

Reports have been received here this week that Southern shippers short of Cotton for October delivery were making enquiry regarding the possibility of taking cotton out of the New York stock.

The only midmonth crop condition report to be published placed the condition at 47, which would indicate no more than the normal deterioration for the first half period, and speculative excitement based on small crop figures are now subsiding, with traders inclined to await developments in the spot and goods markets. Speculative sentiment is very general in the trade, many predicting 30 cents before spring. There is a firm belief that the old crop surplus and the present crop will be pretty well cleaned up by next summer.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Nagoya, Oct. 23.—A Kenseikai electioneering meeting held last night ended in rioting when it was broken up by the police. The hall in which the meeting was held was packed and the large overflow crowd, which had been standing for a long time hearing only occasional shouts from the inside, became troublesome.

The speakers inside, it was stated, were extremely partisan and radical and the police were ordered to disperse the meeting. A fight ensued and the crowd poured out, joining the crowds there.

Further fighting took place outside in which several police were seriously injured. The crowd marched to the office of the Seiyukai organ, Shinaichi, and smashed in the office front.

They then waited on several Seiyukai candidates and smashed their windows and destroyed their nameplates, after which they dispersed.

WHAT TO DO WHEN BABY HAS INDIGESTION

In babies and very young children indigestion is caused by errors in diet, frequently by over feeding. Its symptoms are loss of appetite, peevishness, wind, vomiting, furred tongue, bad breath, hic-cough and restless nights. The best treatment is Baby's Own Tablets, which clear away the offending matter and sweeten the stomach. With proper attention to the diet they usually effect a prompt cure.

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are the most valuable medicine you can have in the nursery. They are guaranteed free from opiates and absolutely harmless, and are a remedy for teething troubles, constipation, colic, diarrœa, simple fever and worms. They promote a healthy appetite, restful sleep and regular development.

Sold by chemists, or by mail at 60 cents the vial by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Chen Chung-ming And Wu Pei-fu

BY JOSEF W. HALL

WU Pei-fu is today the only glimmer of hope left to North China so far as political salvation from within is concerned. Perhaps that is why he falls so badly afoul of Sun Yat-sen. For the possibility, however slight, that the official or military elements of North China may produce a man capable of leading the nation to the light is unorthodox to Sun's theories. With him, the connections with the past must be severed completely—the institutions which are the product of the officialdom which succeeded to the power of the Manchus must be scrapped—the men who are the heirs to this power must be eliminated. To him and his co-thinkers it is as unlikely that any good shall come out of North China as it was to the Pharisees of Christ's time that any good should come out of Nazareth.

If Sun Yat-sen is a man who is so confident in his ideals and aims that he will not permit his associates the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an "i," and that he will not admit of any scheme for the carrying out of these aims other than that of his own inspiration, Wu Pei-fu on the contrary, is, firstly and foremostly, a man who is willing to make any concession which leads in the direction of his main purpose, and who has a sufficient understanding of human psychology to utilise the means which offer to his hand for the furthering of that purpose. Take, for example, Wu's maintenance of the prestige of and his respectful devotion to General Tsao Kun, High Inspector of Chihil, Shantung and Honan. Wu's policy toward Tsao Kun has been consistent in spite of the open exasperation of some of his warmest friends and most faithful supporters, who would like him to throw over a man who has the back-bone of a jelly-fish and who as an asset to his country ranks certainly not higher than a National Treasury Bond. Yet Wu, with a practical eye to circumstances, has perhaps saved both himself and his ideals by adopting a certain measure of opportunism. The struggle will come between the ideals and the opportunism. If the former, in Wu's mind, continues to permit the other no place greater than that of a tool, then the hope of the nation in Wu may not prove vain, and his ideals, since the world is pragmatical, stand more chance of realisation than those of Dr. Sun.

Chen Chung-ming, in the popular belief, is of a similar psychology to Wu Pei-fu. Both seem to possess a certain quality of directness in thinking which is valuable because it is unique. To this quality is attributable perhaps a good deal of the military success of either man, as well as either's political outlook. Those who value practicalness in politics above personal fidelity wonder why Chen Chung-ming does not dish Dr. Sun. It is probable that he could do it, as it is likely that Wu Pei-fu, choosing the right moment, could break away from Tsao Kun. But perhaps Chen needs Sun as greatly as Wu Pei-fu needs Tsao Kun.

In Oriental politics more than in any other species it is of value to be able to work behind a head. Without Tsao Kun, Wu Pei-fu would be in direct contra-position to Chang Tso-lin, and without Sun Yat-sen, Chen Chung-ming would be in direct opposition to the North. With Tsao Kun between him and Fengtien, Wu Pei-fu can make many moves which otherwise would constitute a direct challenge to the Mukden satrap. With Dr. Sun at his head, Chen is relieved of many of the embarrassments of a state of rebellion to the recognised (so far as the foreign Powers are concerned) government. The hatred of northern officialdom centers for the present upon Sun. Chen remains practically free from the onus. While animosity on the part of the militarists and mistrust on the part of the common people makes reunion between north and south, with Sun anywhere a factor, impossible, and justifies his conviction that only through absolute conquest can he extend his influence over China, Chen has the admiration of the northern people and to the military officialdom is neither friend nor enemy and potentially either.

The possibility of Chen's becoming a factor in the geographical reunion of the country is an encouraging, although remote hope to many of its people. Its realisation rests largely with Wu Pei-fu whose relation to Chen Chung-ming is a subject for further consideration.

Wilson And Silesia

What Happened At Paris Meeting Of The President, Lloyd George And Clemenceau

BY MERMEIX

(This article, from the Paris Figaro of July 11 and the Living Age of Sept. 3, is described as written by the author of a book on the Peace Conference who has just made public that portion of the discussion at several sessions of the "Council of Three" which related to Upper Silesia, taken from the memoranda made by the interpreters who were present.)

Lloyd George proposed that a plebiscite be taken, concluding his argument in its favor with these words: "I am convinced that the popular vote will be favorable to Poland."

Clemenceau—So far as Poland is concerned, there is, first of all, a historical crime to be atoned; but there is also the need of creating a barrier between Germany and Russia. You can read the interview just given by Mr. Erzberger. He demands that Poland be as feeble as possible, since it separates Germany from Russia. He adds that, when Germany and Russia come to terms, Germany can attack France with better promise of success than in 1914. Is that what you want? Germany, mistress of Russia, means that our dead have died for nothing. That is all I want to say on the subject just now.

Wilson—A plebiscite in Upper Silesia seems to me a difficult undertaking. It will be necessary first to expel the German officials.

Lloyd George—Do you mean the petty officials?

Wilson—No, I mean those who have charge of the general administration.

Clemenceau—Don't forget, however, that the Central Government appoints the Mayors in Germany.

Llody George—I agree that the principal German officials should leave the country before the vote is taken.

Wilson—Yes, but more than that. Fifteen or twenty great German capitalists own Upper Silesia.

Clemenceau—That is true, too—particularly Henckel of Donnersmark.

Wilson—A free and uninfluenced plebiscite would be an impossibility, according to my advisers, in a country which has been so long under an alien Government, and which would be in constant fear of reprisals unless the Germans were evicted.

Lloyd George—However, in spite of that fear, the Poles won the elections of 1907. My advisers, and I personally, believe a plebiscite would be favorable for Poland. They think that such a plebiscite would prevent the Germans from laying claim to the country later.

Wilson—There is no strong public sentiment in Germany in favor of retaining Upper Silesia. It is entirely an affair of the big capitalists.

Lloyd George—However, the German Government is controlled by the Socialists, and they are the ones who protest.

Wilson—Yes, but at the instance of the capitalists. I repeat, an uninfluenced vote is impossible.

Lloyd George—Very well. We can occupy the territory during the election.

Wilson—They will say we are exercising military pressure.

Clemenceau—Whatever happens, the Germans will continue to protest.

Lloyd George—A vote will be no less valuable on that account. Moreover, how can the Germans intimidate the laborers who oppose them? We have had cases like that in Wales, and we have beaten the big mine-owners.

Wilson—You are comparing things which are not comparable.

Lloyd George—I repeat that the elections have been favorable to the Poles in the whole district we have in mind.

Wilson—Those were local elections, not a plebiscite to determine the country's nationality.

Clemenceau—We have not promised that a popular vote will be taken in this region.

Wilson—But, now, what would your plan be in detail?

Lloyd George—The same as for East Prussia.

Wilson—And if the Germans refuse to obey the decision of the League of Nations?

Clemenceau—You will ask them to promise. They will promise, but they will not keep their promise. Is that what you wish?

Lloyd George—I do not exclude the hypothesis that we may have to place troops in the plebiscite zone.

Wilson—I wish to point out again that Germany will charge us with using military compulsion.

Lloyd George—One division will be enough.

Wilson—And it will be enough to lay us open to the accusation I have just mentioned.

Lloyd George—I want peace. I know from other sources that the question of Silesia is of the utmost importance for Germany. I prefer to send one division to Silesia rather than a whole army to Berlin.

Clemenceau—Who tells you that will be the alternative?

Lloyd George—So far as a free election goes, that is our business. If Germany should resist the enforcement of a plebiscite favorable to Poland, the British Army would march on Berlin with enthusiasm. That is what I want. I must have the English people behind me if there are new difficulties.

Wilson—Your intentions are excellent. But if we send troops, we shall be accused of exercising military pressure.

Clemenceau—I have listened to you two with great attention. My personal objections are these: You want to avoid difficulties and are making them worse. A plebiscite—is that a panacea? Not in Germany, where liberty has never existed. To hold a popular election, and then get out and leave the rest to take care of itself, would be very fine; but it would be a crime against Poland. If we garrison a plebiscite zone with our troops Germany will say we have exerted pressure, and you know what the result will be. Inside of six months or a year you will have all the embarrassments of war in a nominal state of peace, and the situation will probably be worse than it is today. You say, Mr. Lloyd George, that you do not want to march on Berlin. Neither do I. If we have sacrificed the lives of millions of soldiers, it was to preserve our existence. You say you want to know what Upper Silesia really wants. I reply that when Germany holds the country, Upper Silesia cannot tell us what it does want; and that if the Allies take charge of the country the Germans will claim that the election is not a fair one. You want to appease where the simplest and wisest thing is to say no. We honestly believe we are drafting a just treaty. Let us stick to that. Your popular vote and occupation will be only a seed-bed for future controversies, and perhaps for future battles. In a word, it will have an effect precisely the opposite of what you wish.

Lloyd George—But if you fear Germany's opposition, you are much surer to have that if no popular vote is taken; and we must recognise that, from the legal point of view, Germany's case will be much stronger than it would be otherwise.

Wilson—We said in drafting the bases of our peace that Poland would receive all provinces indisputably Polish.

Lloyd George—But the Germans say that this is not true of Upper Silesia.

Clemenceau—How is that? You know perfectly well that German statistics themselves made Upper Silesia Polish by a large majority.

Wilson—We must come to some decision. We might consent to a popular vote controlled by an interallied commission. We may declare in advance that the plebiscite will be vetoed if the commission reports to us that pressure has been used.

Lloyd George—I want to avoid a conflict. The Germans of Upper Silesia consider the Poles an inferior race, whom they despise. If you put Germans under Polish rule you are breeding trouble.

Clemenceau—You may be sure you are going to have trouble anyway, either now or later, whether you have a plebiscite or do not have it.

Lloyd George—I do not agree on that point.

Clemenceau—The future will tell. But I beg you not to forget what I have just said.

Wilson—I believe we ought to have a plebiscite; but not earlier than within a year, and not later than within two years. Professor Lord is informed by an American who has studied the situation on the ground that all classes of the population want a popular vote. But Mr. Lord is personally opposed to it.

Clemenceau—I have nothing to add to what I have already said. But I continue in my opinion that a popular vote is a mistake. Since I am a minority, I must bow to your decision. I still believe, however, that we are courting trouble in Upper Silesia, and that it would be better to settle the thing off-hand.

Intelligent Idleness

BY WOODS HUTCHINSON

(Eminent physician whose sensible discourses on Health, Hygiene and Disease have been followed with general interest.)

"The time we lose we gain when we take a day off to nurse the usually ignored common cold. A day in bed, in such case, saves nine. Hot baths, taken promptly, will help."

There is no better illustration of the profound wisdom of the paradoxes that intelligent idleness is one of the great secrets of success, and that it is the time which we lose that we gain, than the taking of a day off when attacked with the usually ignored common cold.

A day in bed saves nine, not only of danger and discomfort but of what is often worse from a practical point of view, of incompetence and "half-thereness," for if you drive yourself to work you can make more blunders and muddles and mistakes and general tribulation for yourself and for others than can be undone in a month of "unscrambling."

The next most important antidote against the ubiquitous cold is that universal consoler and comforter, a hot bath.

This is best taken at night, though the ancient prejudice against its supposed unhealthfulness in the morning or during the day is almost entirely unfounded, and any time is a good time for a hot bath, when you can get it, and feel achy and shivery and out-of-sorts and follow it up by rest on a lounge or in bed.

A hot bath does good in several ways. First and foremost, by the relaxing, soothing and pain-relieving effects of the heat and the moisture, then by the stimulation of the sweat glands of the skin and most of the other waste and poison-excreting activities of the body. Also if you soak yourself luxuriously and at length in thirty or forty gallons of steaming hot water, with your nose only a couple of inches above its surface, you are safe to inhale a large amount of steam and hot water vapor, which has a very soothing effect upon the nose and throat.

ARTIFICIAL FEVER HELPS

Last, but by no means least, the prolonged immersion of the whole body in hot water has a distinct effect in raising the internal temperature, thus producing a sort of artificial or mechanical fever, and as one of the beneficent effects of fever is now believed to be that its higher temperature discourages the growth and multiplication of the germs that cause it, the hot bath enables us to get the beneficial and germicidal effects of fever without its toxic and injurious ones.

It is not too much to say that a rest in bed, with a hot bath twice a day, will go far toward enabling the system either to throw off or greatly diminish and shorten the attack of not merely most colds but a good many more serious infections and fevers as well.

We are gradually coming to the belief that for every serious and full-grown attack of any fever or infection, including such serious ones as pneumonia, rheumatism, cerebro-spinal meningitis and infantile paralysis, there occur anywhere from two to ten imperfect cases.

And there can be little question that rest in bed and hot baths taken promptly at the very first sign of shiveriness, stretchiness, headache and backache and "all-overishness," or what the darkies call "ginrul mizry," may be sufficient to turn the scale and make all the difference between a severe, prolonged and dangerous attack and a mild one.

To get the best effects in breaking up a cold or other fever, the bath should be no hurried plunge and scrub, but a long, luxurious, saturating soak, kept up just as long as it produces an increasing sense of comfort.

It will give better results and be borne longer with comfort if a gentle but considerable flow of fresh water at, or slightly above, the desired temperature is kept up all through the bath, for the steam-effects upon the surface of the body are most soothing and restful.

One caution should, however, be given, and that is that the best effects from hot baths will be obtained either at the beginning or in the decline of a cold.

COOLING BATH

If the first two or three hot baths do not break up the cold and diminish the fever there will come a period of perhaps two or three days in the height of the fever when they will seem, to rather add to the discomfort of the patient, and tepid or even slightly cool baths, that is, getting into the tub at a comfortable warmth and letting slightly cooler water flow into it, will give greater comfort and relief, especially if there be continued feverishness or rise of temperature.

Heat and moisture internally are also very helpful in breaking up a cold in the form of hot drinks, hot lemonade, linseed tea, hot soups and broths, hot milk, even the diabolical "yarb" teas.

It makes little difference what they are flavored with so long as they are hot, wet and taken by the quart.

Any intelligent physician can suggest a prescription to be kept in the family medicine chest and used in emergencies of this class, ranging all the way from the old-fashioned Dovers powder and quinine to the more modern novaspirin, phenacetin and hexamethylin, which, while it is doubtful whether they have any positive effect upon the infection itself, unquestionably make the patient very much more comfortable during its course.

Almost anything may happen after a cold, but there are two or three rather common results which are of interest and importance, largely because they are very apt to be overlooked and hence not guarded against.

First and most obvious comes that distressing and offensive condition as catarrh, or, in technical argot, chronic rhinitis. We all know what catarrh is, many of us from personal experience, but we perhaps fail to recognise that practically every case of the common forms starts from an uncured attack of common cold.

DR. FISCHER'S OPIUM CHARGE

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Sir.—I note in this morning's news items that Dr. O. E. Fischer, in appearing for the defendant in an opium case, introduced the plea that if the court were going to punish his client for being in possession of opium it would have to take into consideration the punishment of 99 percent of the Chinese living in the Settlement.

By making this statement, if the above report be authentic, Dr. Fischer has directly implied that 99 percent of the Chinese residents in the Settlement either possess, buy or sell, smoke, or abet in the traffic of, opium. Of course, such an implication is absurd, but the point is that Dr. Fischer in attempting to defend one person has insulted and made himself extremely offensive to the Chinese in the Settlement. Dr. Fischer's attitude in maligning the Chinese does certainly not increase their respect for him. I am, etc.,

K. K. S.

Shanghai, Oct. 23, 1921.

The above news item referred to is found on Page 1, Col. 2, under head "Opium Legacy Earns Beneficiary Jail Term" of CHINA PRESS of October 23, 1921.

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's (Registered Trade Mark) Distemper

is a unique preparation and has the recommendation of leading sanitary authorities, architects, and decorators everywhere.

Shansi's First Auto Road Soon Will Be In Shape

The first automobile road building in Shansi began in 1920 under Colonel Chao of Shansi Provincial Road Bureau. About seventy miles of road were built beginning at Taiyuanfu, paralleling the railroad to Yutzu, and south to Taiku, Chi Hsien and Pingyao.

When famine relief measures began in the winter of 1920-1921 the American Red Cross came first to the aid of the eastern border of Shansi where the American Church of the Brethren Mission is located. They decided to build a road south from the railroad at Yuan Chuan eighty miles to Liao Chow through a mountainous district rich in coal and iron.

Later the American Red Cross decided also to build the road from Pingyao to Fenchow, nearly twenty-five miles. About this time the International Famine Relief Committee of Shansi granted funds to build the first section of the road direct from Taiyuanfu to Fenchow.

This took the road from Taiyuanfu to Chin Szu, the site of a temple of national fame, about thirteen miles southwest from Taiyuanfu. The American Red Cross men started from the Fenchow end and built the first five miles towards Taiyuanfu to Loa Cheng and also a narrow branch of about four miles in length to Yutaoho, a Shansi summer resort. All other roads built have a road surface twenty-two feet in width.

FENCHOW TO YELLOW RIVER

Following this the American Red Cross undertook by far the most difficult piece of work in beginning the road from Fenchow to the Yellow River. This route has been for centuries the historical trail to central Asia. The present terminus on the Yellow River is Chung Tu, eighty-three miles from Fenchow.

The Construction of this road was a very difficult engineering problem. It crosses a mountain range and the elevation at the pass is 5420 feet. Notwithstanding, seventy-eight percent of the road has an ascent of three feet or less in one hundred, and only two percent has a grade greater than four feet in one hundred. There are no grades greater than six feet in a hundred and the higher grades are only on very short stretches.

The last piece of work to be started was the road connecting Fenchow and Taiyuanfu. The fifty miles of earth work remaining were completed at the rate of something better than a mile a day. The appropriation came through the International Famine Relief Committee of Shansi. This road borders the large Taiyuanfu plain at the foot of a range of mountains giving many scenic views.

The China Year Book speaking of motor roads says: "The entire road total outside the Treaty Ports did not exceed two hundred and fifty miles in 1920."

In Shansi during 1921 however, two hundred fifty-five miles have been built with $1,500,000 Mex. famine relief funds. In addition Governor Yen has built this year over one hundred miles more using Shansi soldiers as road laborers. This work is still proceeding both north from Taiyuanfu and south from Pingyao towards the southern border of Shansi Province.

OPENING FOR AUTO DEALERS

Shansi then should offer a good commercial opening in automobiles. At Taiyuanfu the celebration to open these roads will begin on November first and will offer a favorable opportunity for business men interested in the commercial opportunities of Shansi Province. Bus lines are already beginning to do business but there are at present less than twenty automobiles available in Shansi. The opening celebration might offer a favorable opportunity for firms interested in automobile sales.

With the exception of the Fenchow—Pingyao road, which was surfaced with ashes, all famine funds roads are being surfaced with gravel. All roads have many fine stone bridges and total about 700 brick and stone culverts. The road to the Yellow River with its stone blasting and stone bridges has been a difficult road to build, but roads blasted out of rocky mountain sides are beyond the reach of injury from neglect and should prove a very permanent benefit to China's economic development.

This road running through the mountains dotted with walnut and fruit trees, and winding over the mountain divide, among flowering shrubs with beautiful autumn colorings should attract visitors from long distances. If anyone plans to attend the opening of these roads beginning in Taiyuanfu November first, word should be sent to American Board Mission, Fenchow, Shansi as soon as possible.

DOG IN MANGER STAND WORRYING NEEDY PEKINGESE

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 20.—Opposition to Mr. J. J. Abbott's efforts to negotiate a renewal loan covering principal and interest on the two existing American loans secured by the Tobacco and Wine Tax and due for payment on November 1st and December 1st respectively has resulted in an attempt by interested Chinese to float a $50,000,000 domestic loan on the security of the Tobacco and Wine Revenue, according to the best available information.

Tobacco and Wine merchants have long been opposing the proposed Abbott renewal loan, mainly for the reason that they fear that such a loan will bring about a stricter supervision of tax collections, thus causing a decrease in their revenues from this source.

Other organisations have according to the best information, recently come to the aid of the Tobacco and Wine merchants in opposing the Abbott negotiations, and there is now a strong coterie of merchants, bankers and chambers of commerce representing a large part of the country in flat opposition to any further foreign loans on the Tobbacco and Wine security.

"NO MORE FOREIGN LOANS"

That this opposition is, according to interested Chinese officials, based on ignorance of the actual facts in the situation makes no difference to those who are against the Abbott negotiations, The idea behind the opposition is one of enlightened self-interest leaning on the watchword: "No more foreign loans," and the idea is gaining ground.

Government officials are, it is stated, unable to face this opposition successfully and, as a result, it has been suggested to the Ministry of Finance that the Goverament take up the Abbott loan opponents and suggest to them that they help restore China's credit abroad by floating a domestic loan on the Tobacco and Wine Revenue, this loan to be large enough to pay off the two American loans, with interest due, and leave a handsome residue for the use of the Government.

The amount proposed is Mexican $50,000,000 of which the Tobacco and Wine merchants, Bankers and chambers of commerce should, it is suggested, raise $30,000,000, while the balance of $20,000,000 will according to the present plan, be raised by selling the loan bonds to provincial and district officials and gentry. It is estimated by the promoters of this scheme that a $50,000,000 Domestic Tobacco and Wine Loan will realise enough, even if the bonds are sold considerably below par, to pay off Mr. Abbott's bank and the Pacific Development Company and still leave a large balance for urgent Government requirements.

DIFFICULTIES POINTED OUT

It is pointed out, on the other hand, that a domestic loan could not be put through early enough to meet the American obligations when they mature and that, therefore, the credit of China in the United States—and other countries—would in nowise be bolstered up by such a loan. Furthermore, the average Chinese investor is losing interest in Government loans where no supervision of the security is provided for and repayment of which is seldom made within the time stipulated.

Hence the feeling exists in well informed Chinese official and financial circles that the $50,000,000 domestic loan proposal does not meet the requirements of the present situation and that, while there is undoubted opposition to the renewal of the two American loans on the security of the Tobacco and Wine Revenue, more definite measures than those offered by the domestic loan scheme must be taken for meeting China's obligations towards the Continental and Commercial Bank and the Pacific Development Company.

American Firm Gets Harbin Tram Contract

Chinese Capitalists Hand Right To Representative Of Begmann And Linden

Harbin, Octobr 6.—The Chinese capitalists who obtained a concession for building a tramway and electric plant at Harbin have handed over their rights to the representative of the American firm of Begmann and Linden. It appears that the negotiations for this transfer started a long time ago, but the Chinese were continually changing their mind and wavering. Finally the representative of the American Company declared that unless the preliminary agreement was signed prior to October 1 he would close all negotiations. The papers are full of comments with regard to this change and emphasise that the new agreement is worded in a careless way as far as the Chinese side is concerned and does not guarantee the immediate beginning of the work.

It is persistently rumored that Blucher has declared a fresh mobilisation in Transbaikalia in connection with the decision of the Japanese delegation at Mukden not to evacuate their troops from the Maritime Province, as a perliminary measure to further economic negotiations.

SOLDIERS BOWLED OVER BY PLANE IN PEKING FIELD

Peking, Oct. 20.—The necessity for the completion of the new aviation training ground north of Peking at Tsingho (one station beyond Tsinghua on the Peking-Suiyuan Railway) has been emphasised by the second accident at Nanyuan aviation field in which Chang Tso-lin's soldiers have figured. A student pilot making a test flight alone was unable to land upon the spot near the aerodromes, which is usually clear, and was forced to come down on the further end of the field, which has been appropriated as a parade and drill ground by the Fengtien garrison, and which, between parade hours, is usually being strolled over by parties of recreating troops.

The young aviator unfortunately bowled over such a party while alighting, injuring several of the soldiers, although not so seriously, according to witnesses, as has been made out by their officers. The soldiers, enraged by what they considered the indignity as much as the injury, set upon the pilot and after administering punishment imprisoned him within their barracks, as a "lesson" to the remainder of the aviation corps. The man has not yet been set free. The plane, a small Avro, received some damage.

It will be recalled that several weeks ago an airship which was under the pilotage of one of the foreign instructors was forced to make a landing in a corn field, suffering some damage, to escape mowing down a company of soldiers who were drilling upon the flying field. It has been a wonder to all visitors to the flying field that more mixups have not occurred between the foot—and air-forces using the field. The sight of airplanes landing and taking off over columns of drilling soldiers may be spectacular, but it is not one which would be seen in the military establishments of any modern power.

The foreign instructors have, in several conversations, mentioned their apprehension of serious accident, and stated in a half-playful but half-serious mood that when such an accident takes place (knowing the temper of the Mukden soldiers, who believe that nothing in heaven nor earth should be tolerated to get in their way), they will sprint for their motor-cars and make the best speed back to Peking.

The instructors are hoping for the completion of the Tsingho aerodrome, which has progressed far enough to accommodate several Avros now housed there, but work on which is held up owing to lack of funds. The completion of this field will remove all training from Nanyuan, and thus considerably lessen the danger of trouble there.

Chang Tso-lin is gradually moving his troops to the north of the city and like as not by the time the Tsingho aerodrome is completed it will be exactly within the area in which the Fengtien lord wishes his troops barracked. There is some reason to believe that Chang, in a pet because he has been unable to profit by the skill being developed on the Nanyuan field, and fearing that such skill might eventually become an asset of an opposing party, is willing that his troops should hinder the training.

PEKING TO HELP FREITAS SETTLE MACAO QUESTION

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Oct. 21.—That H. E. M. de Freitas, Portuguese minister to Peking, has called upon Dr. Yen in regard to the Macao controversy and come to an agreement for joint investigation of the question, is the latest development in the boundary dispute as reported through Chinese sources. Two men will be sent by the respective parties and their findings compiled and used for further negotiations but Dr. Yen has also intimated that the Canton Government will have to be consulted.

The Portuguese minister insisted that the whole case must be settled in Peking and for that reason the representatives of the two countries agreed to institute a thorough investigation of the situation at Macao.

In order to learn the views of Canton for future negotiations with Portugal, Dr. Yen has sent a telegram in his own name to Dr. Wu Ting-ang asking him to submit the views of his government toward the Macao incident and the facts of the case from the Chinese point of view. No reply has yet been received from Dr. Wu and it remans to be seen whether any reply will be forthcoming.

M. de Freitas has been informed of this action on the part of Dr. Yen and has also been requested to telegraph the Portuguese governor at Macao asking him to forbid portuguese vessels to cross Chinese waters.

DENY CHIHLI PLEA

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 20.—A group of the newly-elected members of the Chihli Provincial Assembly have petitioned the Ministry of the Interior, pointing out that in view of the separation of Charhar, Jehol and Suaiyuan from Chihli, this province should have a separate assembly exclusive of the members from these districts. The Ministry has responded that this would not be in accord with the regulation governing the election, which stipulated that the Shun Chin Assembly should be elected from Chihli, Jehol, Charhar and Suaiyuan.
